TEACH & FEED
2016
1. Introduction

In the summer of 2015 Rafiki Hostel started a program call Teach and Feed. After two months of program this ended with the construction of two classes and the scholarship of 84 children that before the program were not going to any school or attending any education.

Learning from the last year experience, “Teach and Feed 2016” wants to improve the efficiency of the program introducing a better organization and improving some key aspects like the way and direction of the education the volunteers give as well as the challenge of reduce the final budget of the construction of the school using recycled materials as well as finding cheaper materials.

The final main objective of the program is to support the families to provide education for their children.

“Teach and Feed 2016” is the second edition of the program and will take place in the neighborhood of Sombetini in the outsides of Arusha, Tanzania, in the months of July and August of 2016.

2. Structure of the program

The program consists in two different projects, the construction project and the teaching project.

Construction project: The aim of the construction project is to build a three classrooms school to place the children of the program once it finished.

Educational project: The aim of the project is to identify social risk exclusion children whom are not attending any school or education, raise awareness of the families about how importance is the education for their children, support the families providing education and some food per day to their children, teaching them during two months and preparing them to attend the new school after that. Finally schooling the children in the new school.

3. Volunteers requirements and facilities

The requirements are 4 volunteers each month of the project for the construction project and 6 volunteers for the educational project each month.

4. Help facilities in Tanzania

4.1 People with whom the volunteer will work with

The volunteers will always collaborate and work together with local people.

For the construction project the volunteers will work together with Tanzanian workers.

For the educational project Selina (director of Belbet Nursery School) and 2 Tanzanian teachers of her school will help and will work together with the volunteers in the program.

Also we will count with the collaboration of the 2015 Teach and Feed program school director, Nancy.

And of course the volunteers will count with the support of the Rafiki Hostel organization and the coordinators of the project Samuel and Ally.

5. Project phases

5.1 Construction project phases

1º Project design and budget: To design the plan of the building and calculate the most accurate cost of it.

2º Fund-raising campaign: The volunteers will make a fund-raising campaign in the social media network in order to finance the cost of the school once they arrive to Tanzania. The volunteers will be the ones that will manage the funds. Here is the link with an example of the 2015 funding campaign. https://www.facebook.com/upendo.orphanage.nursery.school/timeline

3º Construction of the school: The construction of the school will take place in the months of July and August. It will combine the work of volunteers and Tanzanian workers. The volunteers will follow in all the cases the indications of the local Tanzanian workers.

3.2 Educational project phases

1º) Prepare the study programs: Since we will divided the children of the program in three groups by ages, we have to create three study programs (one for each group) for cover two months of classes (July and August). Those programs will cover subjects like craft, english, math, reading and writing compression and sports. The aim of the study program is to prepare the incorporation of the children to the school.

2º) Registration of the children: Two days of registration where the families will bring their children and we can get to know their situation and if they are facing social risk exclusion problems.

3º) Classes: Volunteers and Tanzanian teachers will work together. Volunteers and Tanzanian teachers will help each other in order to provide the classes to the children. Depending of the class the principal teacher will be either the volunteer or the Tanzanian teacher, so that when the Tanzanian teacher will be the principal teacher the volunteer will helping him/her and the other way around.
